Discussion for Xlanguage

X language is a new generation of integrated intelligent modeling and simulation language proposed by Prof. Lin Zhang 's team. Under the guidance of Prof. Lin Zhang, we had a lively discussion on the current modeling language and expressed our views on Xlanguage every week. In addition, we also regularly organized academic discussions with experts from other well-known domestic universities.

Student Activities

Under the situation that the domestic epidemic situation is getting better, in addition to learning and modeling and simulation-related academic activities, we organized sports activities once a week. Moreover, we regularly organized laboratory team building activities such as mountain climbing.

Student Chapter Development

So far, more than 50 members of our chapter have registered as student member of SCS successively.

Recruitment of SCS-BH-SC

In the future, SCS-BH-SC will continue its efforts to organize and participate in more activities, especially the international academic activities and communication with other student chapters. Over the past year, under the direction of Prof. Lin Zhang, Beihang University Student Chapter of the SCS (SCS-BH-SC) has participated in organizing a series of academic activities.
